An informative seminar on India and the post Ukraine world was held on 21st May 2022 at the college. The event aims to shed light on the consequences of the Ukrainian conflict and encourage understanding and knowledge among the campus community. This condensed report summarises the seminar's core activities and outcomes.

Renowned specialists in international relations and conflict resolution Dr. Sanajaya Baru presented instructive talks on Ukraine's post-war condition. They gave insights on the country's social, economic, and political difficulties, as well as its worldwide effect.

Panel talks with professionals, scholars, and persons with direct experience in Ukraine were held. These conversations aided in gaining a complete knowledge of the issues of the war and its implications.

The post-Ukraine war lecture at College proved to be an educational and powerful event, providing a greater knowledge of the implications and issues faced by Ukraine in the aftermath of the conflict.

The seminar effectively increased awareness, empathy, and intellectual enrichment among the campus community by offering a forum for expert perspectives, panel discussions, and engaging Q&A sessions. We hope that the information obtained from this seminar will inspire future efforts to promote peace, understanding, and global involvement.

Topic Name:Title: Learning from Life: Fostering Personal Growth for Students and Faculty

Event Type: Student development program

Objective: Through Learning from Life, students and faculty experience personal growth by gaining a deeper understanding of themselves, their strengths, and areas for improvement.

Speaker Name: Prof Masood, Director of AIMS AND FORMAL Principal of Deccan College

Event Date: 13th May 2022

Introduction: Learning from Life is an educational effort that places a strong emphasis on the importance of hands-on learning, introspective thinking, and ongoing development for both students and instructors. R G Kedia College is aware that real-life events can teach us important lessons and provide us with insightful information. The objectives, methods, and effects of the Learning from Life programme on the academic and professional growth of students and teachers are the main topics of the event.

Primary Learning from Life Programme

Objectives: The following are the program's main goals:

Encourage instructors and students to take what they have learned and use it to advance their own personal and professional development.

Encourage an attitude of curiosity, introspection, and lifelong learning.

Improve your capacity for self-awareness, critical thought, problem-solving, and decision-making.

Encourage cooperation, compassion, and a better understanding of various viewpoints.

Numerous options for experiential learning are provided by the programme, including internships, volunteer work, field trips, study abroad opportunities, and industry partnerships. Students and staff can explore different locations, face a variety of challenges, and learn insightful lessons through these encounters.

Learning from Life helps students and staffs grow personally by helping them understand themselves better, their strengths, and their areas for development. They acquire vital abilities like critical thinking, problem-solving, adaptability, and self-reflection, which are needed for success in life.

By bridging the theoretical and practical divide, the programme improves the educational experience. Concepts are put into practise, many viewpoints are explored, and a comprehensive understanding of the subject matter is developed by both students and instructors.

The session ended with appreciate and affiliation to the speaker with vote of thanks.

The team made sure that all relevant resources, including the venue, audio-visual gear, and marketing materials, were available.

The keynote talk from the motivational speaker was really effective, and it helped the audience understand the importance of soft skills and how they can help people grow personally and professionally. To illustrate the transforming effect of developing and honed soft skills, the speaker offered personal tales and success stories.

The fundamental components of soft skills, such as communication, interpersonal skills, emotional intelligence, adaptability, problem-solving, and leadership, were covered in-depth in the seminar. Participants learned the value of each talent and how it contributes to success on both a personal and professional level through interactive workshops.

The programme emphasised the need of interpersonal and emotional intelligence in creating lasting bonds and promoting productive cooperation. Participants gained skills in teamwork, self-awareness, empathy, and conflict resolution, which helped them deal with interpersonal dynamics more skilfully

In conclusion, the seminar on "Motivational Lecture on Soft Skills" gave attendees priceless information and useful tips for improving their soft skills. The occasion was a wonderful example of R G Kedia College's dedication to fostering.
